Introduction

In light of concerns regarding COVID-19, we are informing our guests and partners of measures we have taken to keep everyone safe.

First and foremost, we want to assure everyone that our policies and procedures, including hygiene, have always put our guest's safety and well-being first.

Before Traveling

Crew and guests are required to obtain a PCR test within 5 days of joining the trip, and to provide us a copy of their negative test result upon their arrival in Baja. After taking the test we request that guests self-quarantine and wear face-coverings until they are aboard our vessel or the hotel. After arriving, guests will be escorted directly to our vessel or the hotel, in order to minimize exposure and contact at the port of departure. Upon arrival their temperature will be checked. Guests and crew who exhibit Covid-19 symptoms may not join the group. Instead, we will help you find medical care.

Cruise Description

Trips including a whale lagoon expedition will visit small coastal communities, if allowed by local authorities. During these shore excursions all participants will wear face masks and practice social distancing as much as is practicable.

Turning Around our Vessel

In between each departure, our vessel will be thoroughly cleaned and sanitized. Bunks will be stripped and exposed to UV light before fresh linens are placed. All high-touch surfaces will be sanitized with bleach.

Provisioning

No more than two crew will go into town to purchase supplies. They will adhere to the locally established health mandates, such as social distancing and wearing face coverings. Crew on shopping trips will be asked to take the most direct route to stores, quickly purchase the needed items and return to the boat. Crew will maintain a contact log of all public establishments visited in the course of a port call.
