SWC COVID Code of Conduct

Kindness, cooperation, and respect for others have always been core values of our guests. While we are modifying our procedures to reduce the risk of transmitting COVID-19, we recognize that we cannot control people's thoughts and feelings about the threat of the virus. Some guests may be very concerned, while others may not feel particularly cautious. Our goal is to facilitate a meaningful outdoor adventure that both protects the health of all trip participants and provides a positive, supportive atmosphere and experience.

We know that COVID-19 spreads through virus droplets and these can be transmitted directly person to person. Medical professionals have issued guidance on how to minimize spread and we are implementing many policies and procedures in accordance with their recommendations to protect our guests and guides. We need everyone to engage in a spirit of cooperation and thus have established these behavioral expectations of our guests.

By participating on a Seward Wilderness Collective tour, you agree to the following Code of Conduct:

- I will properly wear a face covering during check-in, group transportation, and anytime when asked to do by SWC staff. I understand this is not optional.
- I agree to follow any system a guide sets up at meals, or any other time designed to protect the health and wellness of all trip members.
- I agree to take personal responsibility for my own health and well-being, to practice social distancing in shared spaces, and to follow the instructions of SWC staff regarding health protocols & procedures.
- I agree to use hand sanitizing systems that are set up and be very aware of my general hygiene.
- I agree to follow the direction from SWC staff if there is a request for a change in behavior relating to the health and safety of all SWC guests and guides.
- I agree to respect the views and feelings of all SWC guests and guides on the tour regarding COVID-19 precautions and risk mitigation.
- If I refuse to comply with these rules of conduct, I understand that SWC staff reserves the right to remove me from any trip and I am responsible for any and all expenses.

These are incredibly challenging times for all of us and we thank you for your help in cultivating a compassionate and positive experience, built on the foundation of health and safety for all.
