

Port of Seattle

Committed to the fishing and maritime industries.

The Port of Seattle offers a wide range of fresh and saltwater moorage options for fishing boats and commercial vessels close to vendors, suppliers and services.

For more than 100 years the Port of Seattle has supported fishing, seafood and maritime activities that generate more than 43,000 jobs in our region. The port's goal is to double the economic value of the fishing and maritime cluster by 2025 through investing in and marketing its fishing and commercial moorage facilities, protecting industrial lands and helping to attract and train maritime employees. The commercial fishing and moorage facilities mentioned in this brochure will play a key role in achieving those goals.

FISHERMEN'S TERMINAL

Enjoy freshwater moorage in a casual setting alongside the North Pacific Fishing Fleet. This modern facility offers the comforts of home, plus dining options and marina services to make your boating adventure easy and fun.

Fishermen's Terminal has been the home of the North Pacific fishing fleet since the facility opened for business in 1914. Today the terminal provides moorage for 400 commercial fishing vessels and work boats. It boasts a vast array of on-site and nearby services with a calm, fresh water environment to moor your boat.
