Haley resigns

Set to leave U.N. this week

HONOLULU — If you got incessant phone calls last week from a hospital that cares for Hawaiian monk seals, you were butt-dialed.

Or, more specifically, foot-dialed. By a gecko.

Marine mammal veterinarian Claire Simeone was at a lab when she got a call from Ke Kaulike Oa, a Big Island hospital where she’s director. She walked in her lab and found the culprit. The gecko had been foot-dialed. Five silent calls followed. Fearing a seal emergency, she rushed back. There was silence on the other end. Nine more silent calls followed. Fearing a seal emergency, she rushed back.

Trying to figure out why a “bazillion” calls were coming from the same number, Simeone caught the mystery caller. She wasn’t the only one getting calls, and people started asking why the hospital was calling. “We had asked once in the recent call history with ‘HIS TINY GECKO IS RINGING IN THE FRIGHT. She walked into a lab and found the culprit. The gecko had been foot-dialed.”

Haleiwa, who is 46 and not personally involved in foreign policy matters. And it’s been discussed, according to a senior administration official, with the aim of preserving the US’s influence in the region.
